Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

Will Nevada and Yuba counties get the big cantonment that is now being surveyed and for which plans costing a total of $2,-0500,000 are now being drawn? No one knows. Probably the high officials of the War Department do not know. But if our international relations in the Atlantic or the Pacific grow worse, as they seem to be steadily doing, it is very probable that the cantonment will be established.

The Nevada City Chamber of Commerce is making plans for bringing to this city the advantages that should accrue to it in event the cantonment is built. There will first be the period of construction, with hundreds of workmen engaged under the supervision of army engineers. Then will follow the assignment of the troops and the establishment of the regular cantonment routine of training.

According to Jack Kaufman, secretary of the Marysville District Chamber of Commerce, this cantonment would be known as a triangular training camp. That is to say, troops would be trained in artillery, use of mechanized motor transport, including tanks, and in air drills for fighter and bomber planes. In other words, this cantonment, when established will provide facilities for training what the Germans call panzer divisions.

In event the cantonment is established we believe that private investors will take care of such recreational and housing projects as may be needed. Workmen employed on the cantonment will want houses for their families. When the troops are established there officers will seek residences for their families, and the parents of many of the young soldiers will probably move into the vicinity of the camp in order to be near their sons. This will all mean a spurt in building, and undoubtedly the entire district will be able to claim exemption from priority restrictions since it can quite properly be declared a defense area.

Of recreational facilities in the way of buildings, Nevada County should provide several large halls where dances may be held. Nevada City at present is without such a building. Steps should be taken to induce investment of private capital in putting up a building of that kind, once the cantonment is assured. Of theatres, probably have a sufficient number to accommodate the demand.

But we surmise that the kind of recreation the young soldiers will most fancy is skiing in the winter time, and all the sports of the winter months and the hunting, fishing, and camping during the summer in Tahoe National Forest of which Nevada City is the gateway.

But most of all, we think, the people of Nevada County should show these soldiers of ours a specially cordiality, a hospitality in keeping with the traditions of the 49ers who founded these communities. For here will be thousands of young fellows, perhaps 40,000 of them, far from home, who will welcome a friendly smile or service, as a thirsty man welcomes a cup of cold water. We think there will be a chance for generous rivalry in hospitality, ranging all around the perimeter of the encampment.

Here is one thing that has helped mightily down in old Santa Fe, New Mexico. There a public spirited matron organized the young women of the town into a club known as the Liberty Belles. In this club "dates" were systematized, so that each soldier could have a date with one of the Belles, but rarely the same soldier with the same Belle. It works. There are no lonesome boys down in Santa Fe. In fact it has worked so well that young officers have tried to declare themselves in on this buck privates' monopoly.

Army Bomber Crashes In Tells Peak Country

A huge, four motored army bomber, which took off from Reno yesterday morning at 11 o'clock crashed on the side of Tells Peak, above Georgetown, killing at least one of the nine occupants.

For hours the bomber was unreported and for a time it was believed it may have crashed in this vicinity.

In Truckee, Deputy Sheriff Tom Dolley of Nevada County had two ambulances and arescue crew ready in the event a crash was reported near that community.

Nelson Stone, Tahoe National Forest employee, sighted the bomber flying over Truckee shortly before noon yesterday. That was the last report of the bomber until a Christdas tree cutter brought two of the occupants of the plane into Georgetown last night. The two said they were thrown bodily from the bomber when the tail fell off and the plane seemed to disintegrate in a heavy snow storm. They parachuted to safety and luckily landed near the Christmas tree cutter's camp.

Ranger Frank McCaslin of the El Dorado National Forest, organized a party in Georgetown and set out to locate the bomber on Tells Peak.

Reports here today indicated the party reached portions of the bomber and found all but one of the crew had parachuted to safety. A search was continued for the portion of the plane which is believed to contain the body of the missing crew member.

The Tells Peak accident was but one of several army plane crashes yesterday.

Here Are Seven Reasons Food Prices Are On Increase

Have you often wondered of late why food prices are up?

A survey reveals the following seven reasons are the cause:

1.—The biggest reason of all, huge government purchases.

2.—No foreign supplies, due to the war.

3.—Speculators.

4.—Increased labor costs.

5.—Increased shipping costs and lack of shipping facilities.

6.—Strikes and lack of labor that halted some harvests.

7.—The government's policy of seeing that the farmer's income is increased.

And don't think the ceiling has been reached. The best advice to those who must eat—and who doesn't?—is to draw in their belts and prepare for the worst.

Confined To Home—

Si Sofge, local Chamber of Commerce secretary, is confined to his home by illness.

NEVADA COUNTY APPLES TOPS IN FANCY TRADE

Rome Beauty apples that weigh a pound each are offered for sale by the Penrose Grocery. These apples are grown in Nevada County only a few miles from the county seat. They are raised by Bursill Brothers on their ranch at Rough and Ready. They have put over 400 boxes in cold storage and expect to get good prices for these very fancy apples from the Christmas trade.

The Ullrich Brothers of Chicago Park also specialize in handsome apples. Their Arkansas Blacks, large, juicy, spicy and fragrant are something to see. Their King Davids, White and Red Delicious, Winesaps, and a half dozen other varieties have won such a reputation that recently a justice of the California Appellate Court drove up from Sacramento to carry home in his car a fall and winter supply for his household.

WAYNE FROSTS ARRIVE HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Frost, former residents who spent the past 18 months in the state of Washington, have returned to Nevada City and are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kemp.

Mrs. Kemp had visited the Frosts several weeks ago and brought back the Frosts infant child.

Work Begins On New Highway Cutoff to City

By EDW. C. UREN

State crews operating with heavy bulldozer equipment and under the direction of A. C. Irish, have started on the new cut off which will bring the Downieville Highway into Nevada City over a much improved route.

The new road leaves the present highway about 1700 feet this side of the old school house at Indian Flat and after ascending Red Hill on a light gradient will pass near the old Nevada City shaft on the property of Dr. Jones and south of the Grover Murphy to a point close to the north west corner of the townsite where it will connect with West Broad street.

West Broad Street fortunately has been widened and improved by the city under the WPA projects and, with the exception of a narrow portion near the junction of East Broad, will afford a much more satisfactory route.

The new location will enter the city with only three or four easy curves and will eliminate some 31 of the present curves, including the hairpin bend near the Buffington Mill, which has always been quite a hazard.

Noble McCormack Resumes Deputy Clerk Duties

R. N. McCormack, Jr., resumed his duties as deputy county clerk Saturday.

He has taken the desk he vacated last March to enter the United States military service as a volunteer. His honorable discharge came several weeks ago, under the Selective Service Act amendment exempting men who have reached the age of 28 or over.

MRS. PARSONS RETURNS FROM VACATION TRIP

Mrs. Charles E. Parsons, well known local woman, who has returned to her home here after a three months visit with relatives and friends on the Eastern Seaboard and in Yermo, Calif., has many interesting experiences and impressions to relate to Nevada City acquaintances.

Mrs. Parsons visited with her daughter's family in Springfield, Vermont, and on her return trip visited with her son and family, Richard Parsons, in Yermo. On her trip East she went through Chicago. On the return journey she went to New Orleans, Texas and then to Yermo. Enroute she stopped at the Carlsbad Caves.

Mrs. Parsons was impressed by the climate on the Eastern Seaboard. She said it has been so dry this year there is even worry about the domestic water supply.

In New York City Mrs. Parsons was impressed by the preparedness for evacuation of the town in the event of invasion.

She said residents of the East are more concerned about the war than those on the Pacific Coast, perhaps because of closer contact with the actual conflict.

The town in which her daughter, Mrs. Harold Bishop, resides is bustling with activity, Mrs. Parsons reports. Factories manufacture machine tools for defense purposes and normal output has trebled.

Mrs. Parsons reports her daughter now has three sons. It was the first time Mrs. Parsons had seen her two youngest grandchildren.

Because of the youngsters and due to her son in law being so busy, Mrs. Parsons said she did not expect to the Bishop family to visit Nevada City in the very near future. Mrs. Parsons found all members of the family in fine health.

Criminal Career Of Local Youths Halted

The criminal career of two local youths, 16 and 15, came to an end with their arrest here by City Officers Clifford Bonivert and Al Sommers Saturday night. The youths are Merle Farrier, 16, and Don McLeod, 15.

In their possession were found numerous articles which the officers said apparently were stolen. Probation Officer A. W. McGagin said the two youths admitted crimes in towns from here to Sacramento.

The youths were apprehended at LeBarr Meadows Saturday night while ransacking cars at the dance hall. They were brought to the county jail here but because there was no charge against them Deputy Sheriff Carl T. Larsen ordered them to go home and Probation Officer McGagin would question them the next morning.

They then went to the home of one of them where they had cached some of the stolen articles. They loaded up with the intention of finding a new hiding place, inasmuch as they suspected the officers would search the premises the next day.

It was while they were walking down the street loaded with their loot that Officers Bonivert and Sommers apprehended them.

The officers said included among the articles stolen were purses from women in North Sacramento and Auburn. The officers said the two evidently took everything they could lay their hands on, for among the loot confiscated were two glass eyes.

McLeod is reported to be a parolee from Preston Schoo of Industry. His previous career included escape from the Grass Valley city jail.

Pair Who Stole Three Cars In Nevada County Apprehended In Marysville

A juvenile crime wave, which included the theft of at least three automobiles, one dog, a pair of fog lights, auto license plates and a couple of suitcases, was believed nipped by Marysville police with the arrest of two youths there.

Included in the alleged thefts of the two youths were two cars in Grass Valley and possibly one in Nevada City.

They may have been responsible for the theft of Don Bluxome's car, which was later found abandoned in front of the Grass Valley City Hall.

An investigation by Highway Patrolman Hanlon Brown of Marysville revealed at least the following activities of the two:

Stealing of the auto of Sydney Smith of Brownsville, wrecked it; stole the auto of J. R. Woodward of Grass Valley, burned it; stole the auto of Mrs. Myrtle Babbert of Grass Valley, abandoned it in Nevada City; stole Mrs. Gabbert's dog which was in the car, and then tossed a coin to see who won the dog. In addition they reportedly stole license plates from cars in a Marysville used car lot; fog lights from a car at Sacramento and two suitcases from a parked car in Marysville.

The thefts were supposed to have started October 18th. The pair operated at night, hiding the stolen cars under the Yuba river bridge in the bottom lands near Marysville.

William Ingram, driver of the car, and Sigard Norgard, a passenger in the machine, realized they were on the wrong road after coming half way to Grass Valley. They turned around and then crashed their automobile against the road bank.

Highway Patrolman Lorris Richards arrested Ingram on a charge of drunken driving and Norgard on a charge of being drunk in an automobile on a public highway. Norgard was injured in the crash and was brought to the county hospital here for treatment.

Chief Max Solaro Thanks Youths Of City For Hallowe'en Thoughtfulness

Chief of Police Max Solaro said Hallowe'en passed in Nevada City without serious damage to property.

The chief of police said he desired to thank the young people of this city for their thoughtfulness in not destroying property.

Some of the younger children enjoyed themselves soaping windows in the business district but on the whole hallowe'en went by without the usual mischeiious pranks.

The Elementary Parent Teachers Association party at the grammar school was well attended. Proceeds from the nominal admission charged parents and from the concessions are to be used to furnish the new kitchen at the grammar school.

AUBURN UPSETS YELLOWJACKETS

Apparently over confident, Nevada City High School's Yellowjackets were upset by Placer Union High School of Auburn at Auburn Friday night. The score in Auburn's favor was 14 to 6.

The Yellowjackets after receiving the opening kickoff, started a march toward the Placer goal but it was stopped 20 yards short of the goal line.

From then on the usually strong Nevada City offensive bogged down and except for a touchdown by Marinkovich, the Yellowjackets couldn't break down the Placer defense.

Coach Ed Frantz' squad has one game left this season. That game is with the Grass Valley Miners in Grass Valley on Armistice Day. It is the big game of the year for the locals and the Yellowjackets are hoping to end a successful season with a victory over their nearby rivals.

WE'RE NOT CHILDREN, MR. PRESIDENT

In his famous "shoot-on-sight" speech September 11, President Roosevelt gave this accounting of the German U-boat attack on the U. S. destroyer Greer.

"The Greer, proceeding in full daylight towards Iceland . . . was carrying American mail to Iceland. She was flying the American flag. Her identity . . . was unmistakable. She was then and there attacked by a submarine . . . The submarine deliberately fired a torpedo at the Greer. . . . In spite of what Hitler's propaganda bureau has invented . . . I tell you the blunt fact that the German submarine fired first upon this American destroyer, without warning and with deliberate design to sink her . . . The destroyer, when attacked, was proceeding on a legitimate mission."

That was the only authentic version of this attack that the American people were given until a little more than a week ago.

Then, however. Secretary of the Navy Knox sent a report to the senate that a British plane first had attacked the U-boat with several bombs and depth charges, that the Greer was bearing down on the submarine and radioing frantically for a British ship to come in for the kill, that the U-boat turned back to fight only after it had been dogged by the Greer for a considerable period of time.

And so, the president apparently told the truth—but not the whole truth.

The submarine fired first—but the attack was not exactly unprovoked.

Last Monday, the president gave another report to the people on the state of their naval war with Hitler's Germany, this time dealing with the torpedoing of the U. S. destroyer Kearny.

The Kearny was "attacked and hit," the president said, while engaged in convoy duty.

"We have wished to avoid shooting,' he went on. "But the shooting has started. The purpose of Hitler's attack (on the Kearny) was to frighten the American people off the high seas —to force us to make a trembling retreat."

He did not say specifically that this attack was unprovoked. But he left that unmistakable impression.

Later in the week, however. Secretary Knox released another version of the Kearny incident:

"The Kearny, while escorting a convoy of merchant ships, received distress signals from another convoy which was under attack from several German subbarines. The Kearny proceeded to the aid of the attacked convoy.

"On arriving at the scene of the attack, the U. S. S. Kearny dropped depth bombs when it sighted a merchant ship under attack by a submarine. Some time afterward, three torpedo tracks were observed approaching the U. S. S. Kearny. The third struck the U. S. S. Kearny on the starboard side."

And so, in the president's words, we have "wished to avoid shooting," but Hitler attacked the Kearny "to frighten the American people off the high seas.'

What is there for the American people to think when they are being treated in this childish way by their leaders?

We all know it is a risky game that we began playing in the Atlantic when we set out on a policy of delivering the goods to England.

Sooner or later, an American warship engaged in patrol duty was bound to be fired upon while it was tipping off the location of a Nazi U-boat to the British fleet, as was the case with the Greer.

And sooner or later an American ship engaged in convoy duty was bound to be struck by a submarine's torpedo, as was the case with the Kearny.

To call either of these attacks unprovoked is a misrepresentation. Germany and Britain are engaged in all-out war. Both belligerents are doing what they can to sink enemy shipping, and when someone tries to interfere forcibly with such a mission he is provoking an attack upon himself, whatever he prefers to call it.

The American people realize that, and they went into it with their eyes wide open —as a semi-belligerent. If you please, and with an idea that they were remaining neutral.

Why, then, must we be fed these over-sensationalized reports of deliberate Nazi attacks upon our warships?

Why cannot we be given all the facts in a calm, unhysterical way?

The full and complete story is bad enough. It is making Americans more and more angry over the German tactics, and making them all the more resolved to take firm measures in the defense of the western hemisphere.

But there is no excuse whatever for presenting doctored, sensationalized half-facts to the people—unless it is with the deliberate design of whipping them into a warlike frenzy so that they will let their emotions and not their common sense be their guide.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round column, reporting recently on a check-up of sentiment in the midwest, said the biggest complaint you hear is: "If the president would only tell us what he's doing. We're not children! Is he trying to fool us!

That sentiment is not limited to the midwest. It is the prevailing sentiment all over—here in California, just as much as on the Atlantic seaboard.

We want unity in this country. And we know that the only way we'll ever get it is for the administration to stop playing us for children and suckers and tell us the score.

The people will be just as courageous as the president and his cabinet colleagues in undertaking any task that needs to be done for the preservation of their nation's liberties and independence if they are told in a straightforward way what that task is.

We want to place confidence in our leaders, but how can we do it until we have some confidence in the things our leaders tell us!—Sacramento Union.

when you use an AUTOMATIC GAS water heater

It is part of modern living to have "on tap" hot water. Trotting to the basement or porch to light a water heater and then trot back and pat the tank is outmoded work and a waste of time. And a steaming tea kettle on a stove is a sign of heat going to waste. Homes today should have hot water automatically on tap in kitchen, laundry and bath. One of the best and cheapest ways to have this modern hot water service is to put in an Automatic Gas Water heater.

You will like the service an Automatic gives you. You will like its constant supply of hot water at uniform usable temperature. You will like its low operating cost because heating water by the tankful is cheaper than "job-lot" water heating.

Put your home on a par with the new homes everywhere which have the salable feature of Automatic hot water. Buy a quality water heater. Select the correct size for your family needs. Buy on the easy purchase terms that are available.

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder now about our dreams
And how they come and go,
And where they go and whence they come,
I'd really like to know.

I wonder, as I feel sure you often do, about dreams. Fitful scraps of unrelated fantasy that flit in and out of our brains during sleeping hours, from whence do they come and whither do they go. Of course, learned metaphysicians have analyzed and explained our dreams with splendid obscurity, but when one does not understand these explanations, one is still left guessing.

It is not necessary to attach importance to our nocturnal visions ,that is, unless they release a constructive train of thought or suggest a worthy line of action—which they seldom do; but our waking dreams if sustained by unwavering faith and energized by the will to do, may result in achievements of vast benefit to ourselves and to mankind generally.

Fulfillment may exceed vastly in wonder and beauty the pattern of a dream, therefore, if our waking dreams are worthy, we should hold them fast and never let them go.

History records many an amazing reality which transcended by far the dream which led to its achievement. Columbus dreamed of a northern waterway, and found a great new continent. Washington, Lincoln and other like minded men dreamed of liberty and justice for all and of their dreams was born America of today. Outstanding examples like these are innumerable and to them we must not forget to add the myriad dreams of lesser folk, who through the ages have dreamed and builded better than they knew.

As the light of Armistice Day dawns again above the earth, we are thinking of another dreamer and his dream—our own President Wilson and his dream of universal peace and accord. We are recalling the unleashed tide of joy that swept the earth, when, for a brief period of time, it was believed the dream had become reality and we are remembering with profound regret the fact that America was not wise and brave enough to take her stand among the bewildered nations of that day, and lead them boldly into the paths of rectitude and peace.

I wonder if any truly great, good and beautiful dream ever dies. Surely not, if its realization would bless and benefit mankind.

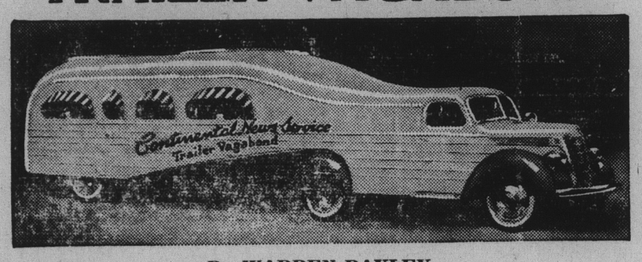

Memories evoked by the observation of Armistice Day, can never die. Visions of peace, liberty and justice can never fade from the minds of men .Today, under the blackest clouds that ever shrouded the earth, they animate and motivate the thoughts and actions of free men and burn with flaming intensity in the hearts of enslaved peoples the world over.

Truly Armistice Day is a time for memory and for tears; it is also time for decision. It is a time for rededication to the principles of truth, honor, justice and right living. There will be a bright, new Armistice Day, perhaps sooner than we think; let us make sure that it will be one in which we may celebrate a just and lasting victory that will usher in a brighter and happier era in human history.

"Power without justice is tyrany, but tyrany cannot endure.

"A dream shall go forth and conquer." —A. Merriam Conner.

TRAILER VAGABOND

By WARREN BAYLEY

This feature appears through the courtesy of O. K. Tire Weld Co. G. R. (Red) Jarrard, Hills Flat, Grass Valley, California.

Salem, Oregon.

Lack of a hotel nearly cost Salem the honor of being a state caital.

Back in 1852, when Oregon's territorial legislature was convening at Oregon City, Salem was only eight years old and had but six families in town. So it was a startled legislature that discovered it had somehow voted Salem to be the territorial capital.

When the lawmakers of Oregon came to town all of Salem's few spare bedrooms were quickly rented leaving most of the legislators no place to sleep. They couldn't stay in what was passing for a city park. It would never do for an august body of lawmakers to be picked up on vagrancy charges. So the homeless officials began to get rather hot under the high, floppy collars in vogue at the time and decided to do something drastic. They packed up and moved the capital to the larger town of Corvallis.

Meanwhile, Congress appropriated funds for Oregon's capitol buildin. The money arrived, ear-marked for Salem. The Comptroller of the U. S. Treasury refused to recognize the bill that had shifted the capital. After one session the governing body of Oregon had to return to Salem, where the cornerstone of the new capitol building was being laid. Almost as soon as the capitol was built it was burned to the ground, supposedy by disgruntled incendiaries.

By the time another capitol was erected members of legislature had managed to make themselves comfortable and even voted to continue on at Salem when Oregon entered the Union in 1859.

The new structure served until 1925, when it, too, was leveled by fire. The one that replaces it is a beauty—unusual in streamlined design and topped by a magnificent dome that resembles a gracefully fluted drum. The capitol looks out over what is now a thriving and prosperous city of 27,000. Salem today is the second largest city in Oregon as well as one of the most beautiful. It processes one third of all the fruit and vegetables canned for the Pacific Northwest .And yes—there are plenty of excellent hotels on hand now for the annual session of legislature which always sets the city buzzing with activity and excitement.

SISKIYOU LEADS IN FUR PELTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—were 1,884 licensed trappers in the state of California during the 1940-41 season according to records of the Division of Fish and Game. In addition to this number there were many under the age of eighteen years who trap fur bearers for profit but for whom there is no record, since a license is not required for those under this age.

Siskiyou county had the greatest number of trappers, with 117 reporting that they trapped. Shasta county follows with 100 trappers, and Humboldt third with 89.

Economic Biologists of the Bureau of Game Conservation have computed statistics from the trappers' reports as to the number of animals of the various species that were trapped during the 1940-41 catch season and the average price received.

The highest price was paid for fisher, an average of $39 per skin. Five of these animals were trapped in the entire state, and there was a considerable variation in the prices received for the pelts, ranging from $25 to $50.

Marten brought the next highest price, averaging $15 per skin. These fur bearers are more plentiful, with a reported take of 402.

Six dollars was the average price paid for river otter, and 26 were taken during the trapping season.

More muskrat were taken in California than any other species, with over 51,000 animals reported trapped. The average price paid to trappers for these skins was $1.29. The greatest number were caught in Siskiyou County. In fact, Siskiyou County produced more fur bearers than any other county in the state, including some of the more valuable furs.

STATE SURVEY OF TRUCKS FOR WAR DEPARTM'T

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 3.—(UP)—About 5,000 truck and bus owners have returned questionnaires sent out by the state department of motor vehicles to determine what transportation facilities would be available in case of emergency, the department announced today.

The survey is being made at the request of the war department to determine what vehicles would be available in time of invasion, disaster or other emergency. The questionnaires have been sent to some 500,000 vehicle owners.

Deputy registrar Thomas Maloney said a large percentage of the questionnaires were returned only partially answered and that it would be necessary to write follow up letters to many of these asking for additional information. Truck and bus owners, however, were urged to answer as many of the questions as possible, leaving blank those they cannot answer rather than delay the return of questionnaires to Sacramento.

CITY'S SHARE OF STATE LIQUOR FUND $1,412.50

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 3.—Distribution to California cities and counties of $1,583,490.10 as their share of alcoholic beverage license fees earned during the first half of 1941, was announced today by the State Board of Equalization.

The allocation represents one half of the $3,166,980.20 earned by the board during the six month period ended June 30. The state's share goes into the general fund.

Of the total to be distributed in Nevada County, $6,640.47 will go to the unincorporated area, while $1,412.50 has been allocated to Nevada City on the basis of actual licenses issued.

It is pointed out that with the current allocation cities and counties throughout the state have received, since repeal of prohibition, a total of $19,371,754.26. This huge sum has been collected and distributed by the board at no cost to the local government units.
